Dranesville Dispatch

John W. Foust

Dranesville District Supervisor

March 2012 : Issue 18

Dear Dranesville Resident,

It's March and the Fairfax County budget season is upon us once again. On February 28, County Executive Tony Griffin proposed a $3.52 billion balanced budget for Fiscal year 2013. After reviewing and revising the County Executive's Advertised Budget, the Board of Supervisors will adopt the actual budget for Fiscal Year 2013 (July 1, 2012 to June 30, 2013).

The County Executive's proposed budget maintains the real estate tax rate of $1.07 per $100 of assessed value. Included in the proposal is a recommendation to transfer $1.68 billion to Fairfax County Public Schools operations, an increase of 4.5 percent over last year's adopted budget plan.

Other highlights of the County Executive's proposed budget include:

- Increasing the stormwater service rate by $0.01, for a total of $0.025 per $100 of assessed real estate value. This increase is proposed to meet increasing federal and state regulatory requirements for stormwater management.
- Increasing fares and fees for School Age Child Care (SACC), Park Authority and REC Center programs and Fairfax Connector buses.
- Providing a 2.18 percent Market Rate Adjustment (MRA) for salaries of all county employees.

It is very important that members of the Board hear your thoughts on this proposed budget. The next steps in the process are the publicizing of the proposed budget throughout the County, an extensive review by Board members, and the collection and consideration of the opinions of County residents and interested organizations.

Once again, this year I have convened my citizen budget task force, headed by Dranesville resident Rip Sullivan. The task force has been meeting every two weeks and will examine the proposed budget in great detail. Ultimately, they will make recommendations to me that I will share with the rest of the Board and consider as we develop our final budget.

Inside this issue you will find a schedule and information about upcoming budget informational meetings in Dranesville as well as the schedule of County Public Hearings before the Board of Supervisors and how to sign up to testify. To learn more about the FY2013 budget visit the County website at <http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/dmb/>.

In other County news, the Board of Supervisors met recently for a two day retreat to discuss County priorities and plans to address them. In addition, all members of the Board of Supervisors and the Fairfax County Public School Board met for a day-long retreat to discuss ways to achieve the mutual goal of providing a skilled work force for the County in the coming decade. This was the first time the Boards have met for this purpose and it was especially valuable because the School Board has six new members. I believe that this gathering, as well as future meetings targeting specific areas of concern, will benefit the entire community. You will find more information about both meetings in this issue.

It is a privilege to represent you. As always, I welcome your thoughts on how to best serve the Dranesville community. Please feel free to contact my office with your suggestions and concerns.

Best Wishes,

John W. Foust
Dranesville District Supervisor

Old Chesterbrook Road Bridge Over Pimmit Run to Close this Summer for Emergency Super-Structure Replacement

This summer, McLean residents and commuters will be detouring around the Old Chesterbrook Road Bridge over Pimmit Run. The bridge has been scheduled to receive emergency replacement of its super structure after a January 2012 inspection by VDOT determined that the bridge deck and structural steel have serious loss, deterioration and holes that require immediate action. As a consequence of its condition, the bridge is now posted to support a reduced gross weight limit of 20 tons.

The bridge superstructure currently consists of a timber deck supported by steel I-beams. The rehabilitation project will replace the deteriorated bridge deck with a prestressed concrete slab superstructure. This method of construction was chosen because it requires less time to construct, thus reducing the disturbance to traffic during construction. In addition, the concrete material requires less maintenance as compared to the existing steel and timber structure. New and current standard of crush test railing will be installed to enhance safety to traffic and pedestrians.

Included in the renovation will be replacement and extension of the existing pedestrian facilities on the north side of the bridge, a new crosswalk and improved access to the Pimmit Run streamside trail.

VDOT and the office of Supervisor Foust held a public meeting on February 22 to share the design plans with the community and to present two possible construction schedules:

- A construction period lasting 13 months. One lane of traffic open with occasional weekend and night total road closures. Estimated cost of $1,300,000.
- A construction period lasting 5 months. Bridge is totally closed to traffic during Fairfax County Public Schools 2012 summer break (87 days). Estimated cost of $1,000,000.

Community members present at the meeting expressed a strong preference for the second option — an accelerated construction schedule, including total bridge closure at a cost savings of $300,000.

Bridge engineers say that the improved bridge will have a smoother transition from road to bridge surface. Included in this project is the diversion of a 24-inch sewer line to work around new retaining walls and allow better maintenance access to the lines.

Upgrade Planned for Soccer Field at McLean Governmental Center

A proposal to upgrade the soccer field at the McLean Governmental Center, located near the intersection of Balls Hill Road and Lewinsville Road, will be heard by the Fairfax County Planning Commission on May 10. The project is being sponsored by the County's Facilities Management Department (FMD).

The project is subject to the County's 2232 review process, which is used to determine whether public facilities are in conformance with the County's Comprehensive Plan.

The proposed upgrade includes the installation of lights to enable greater usage of the field. Although not part of the application, FMD will also seek a county permit to replace the grass surface with synthetic turf to improve the playing surface. McLean Youth Soccer, which has used the field since the 1970's, will provide the funds for both of these upgrades.

There have been two community meetings on the proposal over the past year and, most recently, a presentation was made to the McLean Citizens Association Planning and Zoning Committee of the MCA on February 28.

A plan of the proposed improvement along with information regarding the 2232 process and information regarding the Planning Commission Hearing can be found at the Dranesville Supervisor's website: at fairfaxcounty.gov/Dranesville.

Creating Supportive Communities for Seniors and Disabled

Dranesville residents continue to meet to address the issues of aging in place and living with disabilities in our area.

On October 15, 2011 over 100 local residents and volunteers began a dialogue on the issues of aging and accessibility in the McLean community. The forum, entitled “McLean: Creating a Supportive Community for All Ages” and hosted by Supervisor Foust, was held for the purpose of making McLean more accessible for aging seniors and people living with disabilities. Whether aging in McLean or living with a disability, many residents and their caregivers are finding that staying in their home is a challenge due to accessibility and logistical issues. The McLean “Creating a Supportive Community” effort is drawing on innovative practices used by other communities to address these issues.

McLean Aging in Place volunteers are currently forming working groups to address aging and accessibility issues facing the elderly and disabled community.

Great Falls Citizens Association and residents are working with the Fairfax County Government and Supervisor Foust’s office to create a ‘Center Without Walls’ in Great Falls. This would operate in the same manner as the Burke/West Springfield Center Without Walls, a public-private partnership among the residents of Burke, West Springfield, Fairfax Station, local businesses, places of worship and the County, created to provide a variety of programs, activities and services to older adults in this community. For more information visit the Center Without Walls website at www.fairfaxcounty.gov/ncs/cwow.htm.

Supervisor Foust’s office is also planning a meeting this spring with Herndon area residents concerned with the issues of aging in place.

For more information on any of these activities or to get involved, contact Jennifer Boysko in the office of Supervisor Foust at Jennifer.boysko@fairfaxcounty.gov.

Riverbend Park Master Plan Process Begins

Fairfax County Park Authority has begun the process for the revision to the 1975 Master Plan for Riverbend Park in Great Falls. This is the first update to the Master Plan since it was originally drafted. The revision will guide staff to ensure that the park continues to meet the needs of park users while still adhering to its mission.

On February 21, the Park Authority held a public information session at the Great Falls Grange, during which County staff gave a brief presentation explaining the Master Plan process and a review of the current amenities offered in the Riverbend Park. The Park Authority also answered questions and heard suggestions for future park features from meeting attendees. Park Authority staff will take the comments they received into consideration as they develop a Draft Master Plan which will be presented to the public for review at a later date.

Residents who were unable to attend the meeting can still submit their comments and find additional information about the Riverbend Park Master Plan process on the Park Authority’s web site at <http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/parks/plandev/riverbend.htm>.

Fairfax County Board of Supervisors and Fairfax County Public Schools Board of Education Discuss Collaboration in Joint Meeting

In an unusual joint meeting, the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors and the Fairfax County Public Schools (FCPS) Board met on Saturday February 23 to strategize on how to increase communication and improve collaboration on County projects and to address how best to provide the need for a skilled work force during the coming decade.

Annually, during the budget season, the Board of Supervisors and the Board of Education meet to discuss the transfer of funds from the County to FCPS. This is, however, the first time that the full boards have met for the purpose of discussing general philosophies and goals and to promote enhanced collaboration.

All members of both boards were in attendance along with Public Schools Superintendent Jack Dale and County Executive Tony Griffin. In addition, FCPS and County staff gave presentations to the two Boards on the subjects of Shared Facilities, Human Services and Transportation.

Dana Kauffman, a former member of the County's Board of Supervisors and currently the Director of College Government Affairs at the Northern Virginia Community College (NOVA), was present to discuss the necessary collaboration between public school systems, community colleges and four-year universities. Mr. Kauffman expressed the necessity that the County provide their own "front-line work force", citing a George Mason University study that predicted 300,000 new jobs coming to Fairfax County in the next 10 years. Forty percent of these jobs are predicted to be in the fields of science, technology, engineering and math. Two thirds of these jobs will require post-secondary education, according to a Georgetown University study.

Supervisor Foust and other members of the County Board of Supervisors at joint retreat with Fairfax County Board of Education.

Superintendent Dale expressed concern that of the 20 percent of FCPS graduates that go to NOVA, 50 percent require remedial work before beginning their core courses. His concern was that FCPS is required to target teaching to the state's Standard of Learning (SOL) tests rather than the requirements of colleges, and that these objectives do not always match.

Another problem identified by Supervisor Dale was that area students frequently change schools and districts and may enter the FCPS schools in late elementary or middle school, without first mastering reading skills.

As part of the cooperative effort between FCPS and higher education, Fairfax County will be considering County funded adult education courses in partnership with NOVA, according to Deputy County Executive Pat Harrison.

Both Boards agreed to hold future meetings on specific projects for collaboration, with at least two meetings to be scheduled in the coming year. Mr. Kauffman added that a forum on preparing the new workforce will be scheduled this coming fall.

For more information about this joint meeting, contact Jane Edmondson in the office of Supervisor Foust at (703) 356-0551 or by email at Jane.Edmondson@FairfaxCounty.gov.

Permanent Changes to Route 7 Traffic Pattern Near Tysons Corner

Virginia Department of Transportation (VDOT) recently activated a new traffic signal, directing left-turn traffic from eastbound Route 7 (Leesburg Pike) onto northbound I-495. The traffic light creates a new permanent traffic pattern and replaces a right lane loop ramp, now permanently closed to allow for completion of the 495 Express Lanes (formerly HOT Lanes). A second left-turn lane will be added to this location later this year to further accommodate Route 7 motorists entering northbound I-495.

For more information contact Cheryl Patten in the office of Supervisor Foust at Cheryl.patten@fairfaxcounty.gov.

Public Input Sought on New Metro Station Names

Fairfax County and Metro officials are asking residents for their ideas in naming the eight new stations proposed for the Silver Line Metrorail, extending rail service through Tysons Corner and beyond to Dulles International Airport.

Using an online survey, the public is invited to review the proposed names for the new stations and register suggestions of their own. Survey participants will be asked to weigh in on the names for the five stations which are currently under construction as part of Phase I and which will formally be named this summer, as well as the three Fairfax County stations which will be part of Phase II.

Metro users have pointed out that station names are important in helping them plan their trips and identify destinations. Station names that include the names of towns, streets, neighborhoods and landmarks have proved most effective.

After formal submission to the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, the final name selections must be approved by the Metro Board of Directors.

The survey is available online in both English and Spanish and will be available to participants until 5 p.m. on Wednesday, March 21, 2012. To register your opinions please visit the survey website at www.wmata.com/silversurvey.

McLean Makes Room for “Extra Space Storage”

Ground was ceremonially broken on February 1 for Extra Space Storage, a personal storage facility, at an event sponsored by Compson Development and the Greater McLean Chamber of Commerce. The facility will be located at 1320 Old Chain Bridge Road in McLean and will open in approximately 12 months.

The 544-unit building will be office-like in appearance, with its color and design blending with that of the surrounding development in the area. In addition to being architecturally pleasing, the building will contribute to the revitalization efforts championed by the McLean Planning Committee, the McLean Revitalization Corporation and Supervisor Foust. Brick and concrete sidewalks will be constructed according to McLean’s Design Standards. All utilities on the building’s frontage on Old Chain Bridge Road will be undergrounded. A landscaped pedestrian walkway will extend from Beverly Road to Old Chain Bridge, enabling residents to have a safe way to reach stores. Compson Development will work with VDOT to install pedestrian crosswalks on both roads.

“We are very proud that the building will have the distinction of being the first LEED Silver rated personal storage facility in Virginia, said Jack Wilbern of Butz-Wilbern, architects for the project. This was a highly collaborative effort that ended with a win-win for everyone. The community wins big, and we ended with a better project.”

Falls Church - McLean Children's Center Celebrates new Bus

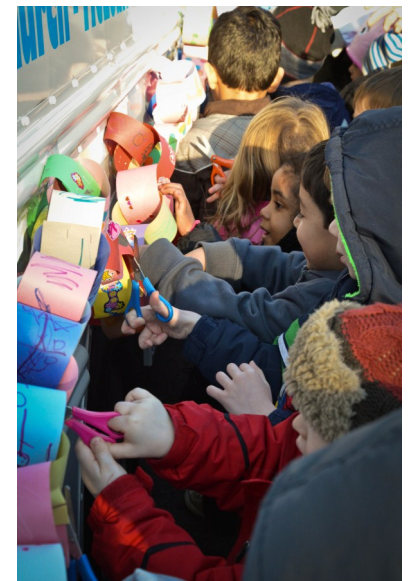

On February 9, a construction-paper chain designed by the preschoolers at the Falls Church-McLean Children's Center served as the ribbon at the official ribbon cutting of the school's new activity bus. The Center's children, ages 2 through 5, serenaded donors to the nonprofit school's bus campaign with their rendition of "Wheels on the Bus" in thanks for their contributions. The celebration was attended by representatives from donating organizations, the McLean Community Foundation, McLean Rotary Club, Immanuel Presbyterian Church of McLean, the PNC Grow Up Great program, Home Veterinary Care of Northern Virginia, Dranesville Supervisor John Foust and many individual donors.

Founded in 1968 by 20 area faith groups, the nonprofit preschool provides a non-denominational, all-day, year-round early education program to prepare young children to be ready to learn when they enter Kindergarten. The Center's 5-classroom facility is located in a dedicated wing of Lemon Road Elementary School.

For more information call the school at (703) 534-4907 or visit the preschool website at fcmlcc.org.

Great Falls Fire Station Grand Opening, March 10

You are invited to attend the Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Department's grand opening of Fire and Rescue Station 12 in Great Falls:

Saturday, March 10 at 11 a.m.
9916 Georgetown Pike
Great Falls

The new 18,700 square-foot, drive-through, four-bay station, blends in with the rural Great Falls area and was constructed with the environment and energy savings as a priority, using recycled glass, heated apparatus bay floors, waterless urinals, earth covered roofs with water absorbing ground cover, and using natural light effectively. The unique dark brown, steel bay doors are bi-folding, and can be moved easily manually, a first of its kind in the county. The station is being submitted for the Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Silver certification.

The previous station was built in 1960, and was undersized for current personnel, apparatus, and did not readily support the functional specialty of swift water rescue operations for the Great Falls area. It also did not meet County and State fire standards, and many of the building systems were rapidly failing. The station now has adequate quarters for women fire fighters, and a waste septic system instead of a pump and haul operation.

Construction of the station began in December 2010. The station became operational in November 2011.

For more information about this event contact the Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Department at (703) 246-3801, TTY: 711 or send an email to fire-rescue.PA-LSE@fairfaxcounty.gov.
